Haltern wanted to create a new fairy tale experience for their youngest visitors. This led to the idea of creating a walk-through fairy tale book, where children not only meet the wolf and the seven dwarfs, but also have the feeling of being part of the story. The interior rooms of the play area are furnished with fairy tale figures and furniture.

On the walls, numerous pictures tell the classic fairy tales of Rapunzel, Sleeping Beauty, Little Red Riding Hood and many more. When visitors enter the rooms the roofs are automatically illuminated, giving them the feeling of being in a fairy tale castle. You can hear goats bleating and even the jingling of the gold, lost by the golden ass. If you press your ear to the wooden mouths, you can listen to the fairy tale, including the part about living happily ever after.
