Pirate John has everything under control at the Emsseepark in Warendorf. He has a watchful eye on the stranded pirate ship. The crew has left the ship via the gangway and is now passing the time in the forest climbing park. Now is a good time to explore the strangers' ship. It is more than 12 meters long.

From the crow's nest – 3 m high – one has a view of nearly the entire island. What could be hidden in the captain's cabin? The compass is broken and the nautical chart is the captain's only hope. The lanterns are still lit up, which means the crew will be back soon. Pirate John returns to his house and looks forward to a delicious fish stew after his many adventures.
